Foxconn Leadership Working to Recruit Out-of-State Talent to Wisconsin

Before an audience of dozens of students at Illinois Institute of Technology, Foxconn hosts 'Tech Talk' and hiring career fair.

Milwaukee, WI – In addition to visiting dozens of Wisconsin colleges and universities, Foxconn officials traveled south of the Wisconsin state border this week to engage students and professors at Illinois Institute of Technology in Chicago, IL.

Dr. Jay Lee, Board Member and the Vice Chairman of Hon Hai Precision Industry Co., Ltd. and Brand Cheng, CEO of Foxconn Industrial Internet, delivered 'Tech Talks' about career opportunities as well as the business advantages of both Industrial Artificial Intelligence and 5G Smart Manufacturing.

Foxconn has been actively visiting college campuses across Wisconsin while also hosting hiring fairs at its North American Headquarters in Milwaukee to fill available high-tech jobs in career fields such as High-Performance Computing, Smart Manufacturing, Industrial AI, 5G Networks, Big Data and more.

Reaching talent outside of Wisconsin brings many benefits to the company and to the state. Both colleges and universities in Wisconsin and throughout the Midwest have rich traditions of preparing the future workforce of tomorrow that will meet the company's current hiring goals to fill high-tech positions.

RECRUITING FUTURE FOXCONN EMPLOYEES FROM OUT-OF-STATE ATTRACTS PEOPLE TO WISCONSIN, WHICH COMBATS "BRAIN DRAIN" AND FURTHER CONTRIBUTES TO A STRONGER TAX BASE.

In the same way the Foxconn has decided to call Wisconsin its North American home, the company has traveled to many college campuses with the intention to hire and recruit competitive talent. These visits include Illinois Institute of Technology, Northwestern University, Penn State University, Georgia Tech University, University of Illinois- Urbana Champaign, Purdue University, University of Michigan, North Carolina State University, University of Kentucky with more college visits scheduled in the upcoming future.
